CHAPTER I

THE CITY OF BOSTON, situated on the eastern point of the island of Nantuxet, in the county of Suffolk, was first settled by a company of Puritan emigrants from England, in the year 1630. The city was then called Boston, in honor of the Earl of Boston, who was the first governor of the colony. The city was then a small town, and was called Boston, in honor of the Earl of Boston, who was the first governor of the colony. A large, abstract, pixelated graphic in shades of gray, resembling a stylized face or a complex digital pattern. The image is composed of many small squares, creating a mosaic effect. The overall shape is roughly rectangular, with some internal structures that could be interpreted as facial features like eyes, a nose, and a mouth, though they are highly stylized and pixelated. The background is a light gray, and the foreground elements are in various shades of gray, from dark to light.
